In Which We Borrow
Some Words About a Publishing Problem

"Throughout my adult life," says William Feather, "I have been all I could to reduce domestic bickering."

He starts off like Dorothy Dix, but what the editor of the Imperial Metal magazine is talking about has to do with the publishing business—and so we're quoting him at length.

"One contribution early in my married life," continues Feather, "was the purchase and delivery of two copies of the one morning paper published in my city. Under the plan the stay-at-home had a paper, and the go-away-to-business had a paper."

"So obviously successful was the plan that the second generation of our family uses it. When my daughter is told by friends about their troubles with the division of the morning paper, she mentions that her household takes two. She says this fact is regarded as a sign of affluence far exceeding the ownership of two automobiles, a country house, membership in two golf clubs, or a prospective trip around the world."

"I now come to something even more surprising. In the apartment where I now live the tenants are presumably fairly well-to-do. My morning paper is deposited at my door by a carrier. Some days it isn't there at the usual time. At first I thought the carrier was slack, but he said no. Then it occurred to me that the paper was being delayed, since it was usually returned. One morning the front section was at the door but the second section was missing. Before I had finished reading the former, the latter was returned, mysteriously."

"I know of course that some neighbor is guilty. To discover his or her identity would be embarrassing to both of us. What puzzles me is why people do such petty things."

FHA Loans Available to Farmers

"Owners of family-size farms who are unable to obtain credit of sufficient amount from regular credit sources may be eligible to secure loans through the Farmers Home Administration to improve and develop their farms," said Mr. Sparks, county supervisor, Farmers Home Administration, Hope.

Mr. Sparks stated that funds may be loaned (1) to construct or repair dwellings, barns and other farm buildings; (2) to provide safe and adequate water supply; (3) for fencing; (4) for pasture improvement and development, including soil treatment such as needed fertilizer; (5) to construct terraces, drainage ditches and other types of soil conservation practices; (6) to construct grade roads; (7) to clear and level land; and (8) if a loan is advanced for any of these improvements and there is a small existing indebtedness against the farm, refinancing of such indebtedness may be carried out, if the refinancing is a small part of the loans. Mr. Sparks further stated that where the farm owned is too small for profitable operation, if land is available, it is possible to secure a loan from the Farmers Home Administration to enlarge or improve such farms sufficiently for the farmer to earn an adequate income. Sharecroppers, renters and day laborers who meet eligibility requirements may secure loans for the purchase of farms and to make necessary improvements to such farms. Family-size farms were defined by Mr. Sparks as those farms large enough to be operated by the family of the operator without employing outside labor, except at peak periods, throughout the year.

The rate of interest is 4 per cent and the loans are repayable over a period of 4 years; however, all borrowers are encouraged to retire their indebtedness as rapidly as possible in order to save interest.

American Planes, Ships Sent to Aid South Korea

Ben Laney to Speak Here Tonight at 8

Ozark, June 27 —(P)—Governor McMath today answered a charge that he had spent highway funds for "private projects."

The charge was leveled by McMath's arch-rival for the Democratic nomination for governor, former Gov. Ben Laney, in a speech at Malvern yesterday.

Speaking at a rural electrification association meeting here, McMath declared:

"My opponent stated that I was using highway revenues for private projects. It was most noticeable that he could not recall any specific project."

"When he gets around to it, I believe he owes it to the people to explain about that concrete road he built to his farm in Mississippi county during the waning days of his administration."

The governor devoted most of his address to what his administration had done economically for this North Arkansas region. He cited road construction expansion, under supervision of the Arkansas public service commission, of electrical service and state aid in improving the livestock industry.

The governor spoke yesterday at the state convention of the Arkansas department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at Hot Springs — and didn't touch directly on Arkansas politics.

He used the present situation in Korea as his starting point and went on from there.

"Today we know the leaders of the Russian government and the Communist party are bent on world domination, and we doubt seriously if they could stop even if they should wish," McMath told a cheering audience.

"Whether we like it or not the United States is the only nation that has the power, the resources—material and human—and the character to stop the advance of communism."

McMath criticized persons he termed "Retreatists."

He described these as "persons who want us to retreat, to withdraw from the problems around us."

He said they're of the same type as those who praised isolationism before World War Two. Now, he said, they oppose the building of a strong defense on grounds that it's uneconomical.

In a speech at Malvern Laney accused McMath of "spending a lot of highway money on private projects."

He didn't specify any projects or otherwise amplify his statement.

"I'll get around to that later," he said.

At Arkadelphia last night he repeated an assertion he'd made previously that Arkansas schools are facing a $4,500,000 deficit in state assistance.

And, he declared, this is result of McMath-directed tampering with the revenue stabilization act by the 1949 legislature.

The only reason there hasn't been a deficit already is because the state used a surplus left over from the administration, Laney declared.

Laney told his Arkadelphia audience that "half of the (McMath) sponsored $28,000,000 highway bond issue has already been spent and you don't have any roads yet."

The former governor was scheduled for appearances at Gurdon, Prescott and Hope today and to night.

Financial Side for Contractors Is Attacked

Little Rock June 27 —(P)—A requirement that applicants for licenses as general contractors have financial data attested to by a certified public accountant has been attacked in a court suit.

W. E. Clark Little Rock said the Arkansas state licensing board for general contractors had refused to receive an application for renewal of his license which expires June 30.

Non-compliance with the CPA requirement was given as the reason he said.

Pulaski chancery court was asked to require the board to receive Clark's applications and those of other contractors before the June 30 deadline.

Clark declared the CPA requirement is "capricious arbitrary and unreasonable and in excess of authority conferred upon the board" by legislation.

Extension of Draft Almost Certain

Washington, June 27 —(P)—Senate-house conferees today voted a one-year extension of the President's existing power to draft young men.

The agreement, which must be ratified by both chambers, also would empower the President to order the national guard and all reserves to immediate active duty.

The senate-house group obviously acted because of the tense Korean situation.

They joined previous restriction voted by the senate and house upon presidential authority to induct manpower and voted out a one year extension of existing draft powers.

Senator Byrd D-Va., one of the conferees, told a reporter that the previously deadlocked lawmakers had quickly agreed today that this was no time to have the world think there was a dispute here over such a matter.

Previously the house had voted a two-year extension of the peacetime draft act requiring registration of young men 18 through 25 years. It retained in the hands of congress the authority for inductions or actual drafting.

Boyle Says Now Is Time to Call Russia and She Will Back Down as in Greece

By HAL BOYLE
New York —(P)—Is this the start of a third world war?

That is the question that touches most American hearts today as news pours in of the fighting in far Korea, the "Ireland of the Orient."

I believe the answer is: "No!" I believe that the answer would still be the same even tough the United States dispatched troops, ships and planes to back up the cease-fire decree of the United Nations.

Why? My conviction is that Soviet Russia isn't yet ready to plunge the globe into another international conflict.

She stretches across 7,000 vulnerable miles that aren't ready for war. Both her frontiers and her wide open hinterland are unprepared for war—if we can believe what our own military authorities say about her.

Let the own Russian-trained forces in Korea sweep through that time-bound land—as they have been doing. Or let them fail. Soviet Russia isn't yet ready to tie her own dreams of world conquest to the Northern Korean troops.

She yet expects to take Korea by the inaction of the western world.

Again why? Because at present the Soviet military main political aim is to try to take the countries on its vast borders by their own interior volitions. Greece yesterday, Korea today, southeast Asia tomorrow. And where the day after tomorrow? Wherever poverty and interior political disaffection makes a country ripe for its propaganda.

Russia backed down in Greece. It is still grappling in a sudden bold grab for Korea, hasn't yet made its main bid for southeast Asia.

Says Service Cleared by State Dept.

Washington, June 27 —(P)—The Evening Star said today it has learned the state department loyalty board has cleared diplomat John S. Service as a loyal American and a good security risk.

State department officials declined comment and neither Service nor his attorney was available immediately. Government agencies customarily do not announce the results of loyalty board investigations.

The report that Service had been cleared by the department board came as senate investigators sought to find a key to what they described as a confusing FBI-recorded talk in 1945 between Service and Amerasia Editor Philip Jaffe.

One informed source who asked not to be named told newsmen that during the conversation Service remarked to Jaffe he was giving him "very secret" military data — its nature not further discussed.

Washington, June 27 —(P)—Senate investigators are trying to find a key today to what they described as a confusing FBI-recorded talk in 1945 between diplomat John S. Service and Amerasia Editor Philip Jaffe.

A transcript of the service-Jaffe conversation was made available by the justice department yesterday to a senate foreign relations subcommittee. That group is investigating the 1945 Amerasia secret documents case.

Service, a state department Far Eastern official testified under oath last week that he never knew Jaffe.

Guard to Drill

Its drill night for members of Co. A of the Arkansas National Guard, Captain Dorsey Fuller announced today. All members are requested to be on hand at 7:30 p.m.

Safety councils are now being organized in every county throughout the state in an effort to awaken the public to practice sound accident prevention measures in the home, in the school, in the industrial plants and on the highways.

Accidents at the present time cost the state of Arkansas approximately six million dollars a year and experience has shown that an awakened public can materially reduce this cost.

SWAHA Seeks to Enlarge Tribe

You too can be an Indian! The Southwest Arkansas Hospitality Association, recently organized for the promotion of the Narrows Lake area, has furnished the Chamber of Commerce a number of membership cards entitling the bearer to all of the rights and privileges accorded a true SWAHA brave.

Membership in this tribe cost $2.00 a year in American money and entitles the brave to receive a copy of the monthly smoke signal giving the latest news of the developments in the Lake area.

Money received from the sale of memberships is to be used by SWAHA in publicizing this new recreational area. It is hoped that several braves may be found in the city so that Hope may do its part in assisting the development of this Southwest Arkansas area.

Minor Wreck

A wreck involving a truck driven by James Shuford and a taxi cab driven by W. C. Rothwell resulted in minor damage yesterday at Hazel and East Division streets about 6 p. m. City Police investigated.

To Organize Safety Council in Hempstead

Harvey D. Booth, executive Director of the Arkansas Safety Council, has accepted an invitation of the Chamber of Commerce to visit Hope Friday, this week.

The purpose of this visit is for organizing a Hempstead County Safety Council and all citizens of the county are invited to attend a public meeting at the Hope City Hall, Friday evening at 7:00 p.m.

During this meeting Mr. Booth will present to the city of Hope an honor roll award for its excellent safety record during the year 1949.

Safety councils are now being organized in every county throughout the state in an effort to awaken the public to practice sound accident prevention measures in the home, in the school, in the industrial plants and on the highways.

Accidents at the present time cost the state of Arkansas approximately six million dollars a year and experience has shown that an awakened public can materially reduce this cost.

Will Demand That U. N. Take Action

Lake Success, JUNE (P) (P)—The United States was reported ready today to demand United Nations backing for military action against Red North Korea.

The United States mission refused to confirm these reports but the chief American delegate, Warren R. Austin, announced he would submit a "resolution of importance" to the security council late today.

Other diplomatic quarters said the final form of the U. S. proposal still was under consideration in mid-day. Consultations were in progress at the U. S. mission in New York.

The U. N. announced its commission for Korea had left Seoul and moved southward in the invaded republic.

The commission earlier had placed full blame for the conflict on the Communist government of North Korea.

A British delegation spokesman said his country would support any U. S. motion.

In London, Prime Minister Clement Attlee planned an announcement on the Korean question after the security council meeting here, the second since the fighting began Sunday morning.

The council meets at 1 p. m. (CST) amid the deepest gloom. Many delegates fear that the fate of the invaded Korean republic, set up under U. N. auspices, is sealed and that no action can be taken in time.

U. N. Secretary-general Trygve Lie says frankly the U. N. is faced by its worst crisis. The crisis reaches beyond the U. N., it is worldwide, Lie says.

The United States policy was declared last night at a high-level parley in Washington. Ambassador Ernest A. Coss, No. 1 man in the U. S. mission here, then flew back to work out a detailed declaration with Chief Delegate Warren R. Austin.

U. S. spokesmen declined to discuss how far the American demands will go. Other delegates made it clear they expected the United States to press for severe measures.

Austin spent Monday afternoon and evening consulting other council members on how far they were willing to go in the way of sanctions.

Under the U. N. charter, the council may order any kind of punitive action from economic or political boycotts to outright military intervention by all U. N. members or any group of members.

The council's cease-fire was ordered Sunday afternoon in an emergency meeting called a few hours after Communist-controlled Northern Korea invaded Southern Korea.

Invading Reds Hurlled Back From Seoul

By RUSSELL BRINES
Tokyo, Wednesday, June 28 —(P)—Decision to send American manned bombers to drive the invading Communists out of South Korea and appointment of an American general to command a "joint defense operation" were reported early today.

(This report was confirmed two and one-half hours later by an announcement in Washington that President Truman had ordered American planes and warships to aid South Korea.)

An apparently well-founded report from a source which cannot be identified said American planes "tonight" would begin bombing all towns captured by the North Koreans who invaded South Korea Sunday.

(Part of this dispatch was timed just before midnight, and part after midnight. "Tonight" could mean in darkness Wednesday morning or Wednesday night.)

Early today a Seoul broadcast quoted President Syngman Rhee as announcing that "General Church" has been named to command a "joint defense operation" and that General MacArthur has promised the South Koreans bombers and anti-tank guns.

The General Church referred to was apparently Brig. Gen. John H. Church, listed at occupation headquarters as commander of the Ryukyus (Okinawa) military government.

There was no immediate confirmation at headquarters of such an appointment. The Seoul broadcast was heard by two different agencies in Tokyo and was in line with the trend of the Korean crisis.

Already General MacArthur had confirmed that American fighter Continued on Page Three

W. L. Carter to Retire at Postoffice

July 1, a lot of Hope folks will go to the parcel post window at the postoffice but it just won't be quite the same.

Walter L. Carter who has been working at the window for the past 27 years won't be there. He will work his last day June 30, before retiring from service at the age of 70.

Mr. Carter started in the postal service back in 1913 when Woodrow Wilson was president and Dave B. Thompson was postmaster. He started working inside holding down the parcel post window for 27 years. June 30 will end 38 years and 8 months of service.

In all those years the roughest time was during the Proving Ground days, he recalled. We opened the window at 7 a. m., the lobby would be full and it never seemed to thin out. It was nice in those days to look up and see a familiar face.

"I have always tried to treat the public right. I found out early that if you treat people right they will treat you right," he said.

Mr. Carter has only 4 more days to work. Many local people will visit him during that time — all sorry to see him leave but glad that he can retire after serving the public for so long.

Candidates Draw Places on Ballot

The Hempstead Democratic Central Committee met with candidates and representatives today at Hope City Hall and held a drawing for places on the lengthy ballot.

W. S. Atkins resigned as committeeman for Ward 4, due to the fact that he was a candidate. The group elected Morton to fill the post and elected Mr. Atkins back as chairman.

Under the law a candidate cannot serve on the committee can serve as chairman.

President Also Orders Formosa Be Protected

Washington June 27 —(P)—President Truman today ordered United States planes and warships to the aid of South Korean forces.

He laid down a policy of standing firm against Communist aggression in the far Pacific.

As a part of the broader policy, Mr. Truman directed that the U. S. Seventh fleet be prepared to intervene to prevent any Communist attack on Formosa the island refuge of the Chinese Nationalist government.

At the same time he asked that Chiang Kai Shek head of the Chinese Nationalists cease attacks on the mainland as contribution toward the pacification of the whole area.

He also announced he is stepping up aid to the Philippines and Indo China.

Mr. Truman announced his actions in a statement which he cleared:

"The attack upon Korea makes it plain beyond all doubt that communism has passed beyond the use of subversion to conquer independent nations and will now use armed invasion and war."

Even before Mr. Truman's announcement that he was sending air cover to the South Koreans, there had been reports from informed Tokyo sources that American bombers would hit towns held by the Communists south of the 38th parallel — the dividing line between South and North Korea.

In their invasion, the Communists have used small amphibious forces to land troops behind the lines of the South Koreans. This is one tactic which superior American forces could quickly stop.

(Seoul broadcasts said an American general would take command of the "joint defense operation." The President's statement made no reference to this.)

Mr. Truman's statement said: "I know that all members of the United Nations will consider carefully the consequences of this latest aggression in Korea in defiance of the charter of the United Nations. A return to the rule of force in international affairs would have far reaching effects. The United States will continue to uphold the rule of law."

Along with the speed up in arms aid to the Philippines and that an American military mission will be sent to the forces of France and the associated states Indo-China to provide close working relations.

The statement of policy was handed to reporters by President's Secretary Charles G. Bohlen while the President was still conferring with congressional defense, diplomatic and military leaders.

When the White House communique broke up after nearly 48 hours, most of the congressmen were silent and solemn.

Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, a frequent Republican critic of administration foreign policy, told reporters:

"I only want to say I approve completely everything that's been done."

Bridges asked in a senate speech yesterday that the administration draw a line in the Pacific and not to the Communists that they must not cross it. In effect, Mr. Truman's pronouncement does that.

Bridges said: "We stepped into the breach in Korea, Indo China and the Philippines. That's our job to protect."

Senator Smith (R-N.J.) said it was "very much pleased" with the President's statement.

"A good fortnight statement like that is a great contribution," Senator Democratic L. B. Lucas told reporters: "I guess we're following the same course in view of the aggressive attitude on the part of the Koreans."

Presbyterian Not to Hold Wednesday Service

FCC Has Full Control of Television

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 26 —(AP)—A man writes in: Why doesn't my city have more than one television station? And when does it look like there'll be more than one?

He's not the first to ask that question, since the government has not approved a license for a new TV station since Oct. 1, 1948. It's time about this way:

If you want to open a new radio or TV station, you can't do so unless you get a license, which means permission and approval from the federal communications commission.

The FCC is the government agency which controls radio and TV. In the fall of 1948, with hundreds of applications for licenses for new TV stations on hand, the FCC suddenly announced:

No more licenses would be approved for an indefinite time. Since then, almost two full years ago, the FCC hadn't approved one. There are now 103 TV stations operating and six more being built. When finished, they'll start business. But the license applications of all 109 were held by FCC before its freeze order took effect.

(The FCC has on hand 351 frozen applications from would-be TV station owners, all waiting for the FCC's go-ahead.)

But what caused the freeze anyway? The FCC has some explanations which can be boiled down to something like this:

1. There is interference between some of the TV stations already operating. Which means: Transmitters are bothering on another because there's not enough distance between them. And—

2. There's lack of room for new stations until some adjustments are made about distributing the air waves differently—in order to give TV stations more air-wave problem and letting more new stations get built.

There's no definite answer from the FCC. But its chairman, Wayne Coy, said some weeks ago it hopes to be able to lift the freeze around the end of 1950 and begin okaying licenses for new stations in 1951.

Meanwhile the picture is complicated for FCC because of color television, since color TV will be involved in the air-wave problem that FCC finally solves.

For more than six months, covering the latter part of 1949 and the early part of 1950, the FCC held dreary, technical hearings on color TV. The question was:

Can color TV sufficiently advanced to be given to the public? And, since more than 4,000,000 black and white TV sets have been sold to the public, then—

How can the TV industry pro-

1300 Idled by Rail Strike in Arkansas

1,300 Arkansans Idle

Little Rock, June 26—(AP)—About 1,300 Arkansas employees of the Rock Island railroad were idle today as the result of a strike by AFL switchmen.

About 60 Arkansas switchmen for the line joined in the midwestern walkout, halting all activity on the Rock Island.

Must Aid Korea Says Rep. Norrell

By GORDON BROWN

Washington, June 27 —(AP)—Rep. Norrell (D-Ark.) said today that the United States must see that South Korea gets adequate supplies and equipment to resist the Red invasion.

Norrell, a member of the house appropriations committee, visited Korea last fall on an inspection trip and later submitted a report to congress saying it was important the South Korean democracy be maintained.

He told a reporter that the present situation could well be the powder keg of a new war.

If it were just a question of Korea by itself, he said, the matter would be of no great importance. But far more is involved, he said.

"Every country in southeastern Asia will be watching to see what we do," he said.

He said color shows in such a way that the present black-and-white sets in homes can continue to be useful.

More than a year ago FCC asked that anyone who had a color TV system which could be fitted into present black-and-white sets step up and show it.

Only three outfits stepped up at the hearings with complete systems, ready to show the FCC. They were RCA (Radio Corporation of America), CBS (Columbia Broadcasting System), and CTI (Color Television, Inc., of San Francisco).

FCC is expected—perhaps this summer—to make its choice from among those three as to the one it will allow to operate. But—

Then FCC will begin hearings on the question mentioned earlier: How to provide more air-wave room for more stations. Then, as Coy said, FCC hopes by the end of the year to lift the freeze on new TV stations.

Safe Solution to End the Korean Outburst Is the Responsibility of U. N.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Upon the shoulders of the United Nations rests the responsibility of finding a safe solution for the Korean upheaval—the most dangerous threat to global peace which the organization has thus far encountered.

This conflict is of course just a fresh phase of the struggle between communism and the democracies. However, in its essence it is another clash between the leaders of the two ideologies—Russia, which is backing Northern Korea, and America, which has sponsored the Southern Koreans in establishing their republic.

Thus the position is far too dangerous to be dealt with in any other way than by concerted action in the U. N. Direct armed intervention by either Washington or Moscow in Korea would be almost certain to produce the war which nobody wants. It may be splitting hairs rather fine, but the provision of military supplies of the Koreans—either North or South—isn't placed in the category of armed intervention technically.

Presumably this was the background of yesterday's action by the Republican members of the U. S. senate, meeting in caucus in Washington. They voted that the Korean incident shouldn't be allowed to involve the United States in war, although this country should provide military supplies and other aid for South Korea.

American supplies are being rushed to Southern Korea from Japan, but President Rhee yesterday described this aid as "too little and too late" after the Russian-backed Communist invaders from Northern Korea threw a tank column to the outskirts of Seoul, the southern capital. Rhee said he didn't mean it looked like failure for the southern cause at that juncture, but the country was "very hard up because aid was slow in coming."

In any event, the only satisfactory solution would be to halt the fighting altogether, and that would have to be done through concerted action in the United Nations. Some suggest it might be handled by mediation. President Truman has pledged the full support of the country to U. N. efforts to end the "unprovoked aggression." He added:

"Those responsible for this act of aggression must realize how seriously the government of the United States views such threats to the peace of the world."

The United States is the key to the position, so far as concerns the U. N. while any sanctions agreed upon by the peace organization presumably would be carried out by an international group. America might have to bear the brunt of the assignment. For that reason her recommendations will be bound to have much weight in the U. N. considerations.

The current position reminds one of another Far Eastern crisis we do," he continued.

"If we pull out and run, then we might as well abandon the entire Pacific area to Russia and withdraw to our West coast."

"If these other countries see that they can't count on our support, they won't resist Russia."

In that case, we might as well say goodbye to Japan, Formosa, Indo-China, Malaya, the Philippines and the whole Pacific area."

Norrell said he believes that South Korea has sufficiently trained troops to handle the situation but that it needs material.

He also said that the prestige and future of the United Nations is involved in the situation.

The South Korean democracy, he said, was set up under U. N. sponsorship.

"Every recommendation the U. N. made was followed," he said. "If the U. N. doesn't take some action now, then in my opinion, the U. N. will be just about as dead as the old League of Nations."

which the League of Nations encountered back in 1922. Japan's aggression against China in Manchuria was brought before the league and there were heated arguments over the possible use of sanctions against Nippon.

But the league was too timid to meet the crisis squarely. Japan's only punishment was condemnation and she resigned from the peace organization.

This failure of the league to measure up to the situation was credited by many observers with having much to do with its loss of face and ultimate demise. That is a point which may be worth remembering now as a somewhat similar situation comes up for action in the U. N.

9 Year Old Boy Now Feels Fine

Harold Wood, 2849 Lafayette Ave., St. Louis, Missouri, calls "batter up" and proudly displays his cap, which is an exact replica of the cap worn by the St. Louis Cardinals. Harold is now interested in all kinds of sports and spends most of his time in the healthy out-of-doors. Harold's renewed interest in athletics seemed to start just after he began taking HADACOL. Before taking HADACOL, he was sick quite a bit, but now Harold is one of the liveliest youngsters in his neighborhood.

Here is Harold's own statement: "I am 9 years old and I think your HADACOL is very fine. My mother thinks it is so wonderful because before I started taking HADACOL I was very thin and didn't feel like eating at all. After I took two bottles of HADACOL I started gaining weight and Mother says she is never going to let me be without HADACOL again. It gives me such a good appetite and helps me keep away from colds. I started my grandmother and grandfather taking HADACOL and they think it is wonderful too."

Harold was suffering from a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

HADACOL Helps Build Yes, HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (where Iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ, and every part of your body—to the heart, liver, gall bladder, pancreas, kidneys and lungs, even to the eyes, hair and nails. Countless thousands are benefiting from HADACOL—even hundreds of doctors have recommended HADACOL to their patients.

You'll Feel Wonderful with the first few bottles of HADACOL you take, or your money back. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine HADACOL. Only $1.25 for Trial size; Large Family or Hospital size, $3.50.

Korean War Casts Shadow on Business

By SAM DAWSON

New York, June 26 —(AP)—The Korean war scare casts a shadow of uncertainty today on the business scene.

The curtain is falling on a lively first half fear, an even better one than many observers had predicted. The new uncertainty comes when observers already were sharply divided as to what role would be played by the second half waiting in the wings.

Some think the second half will be as cheerful as the first. Others think the peak is about reached.

Almost all of the business indicators are rising or still high. But a few signs of a slowdown are reported today. A washing machine factory lays off its second shift as sales drop. Television set sales go into the expected summer slump. Farm income is running behind last year, although prices have been rising in recent weeks.

But most of today's news points the other way. Employment is up, and basic industries are booming. Soft good industries are straining.

The war scare will have to get more tangible to affect most of these right away. A washing up of the cold war usually stimulates some part of industry. Congress loosens up the purse strings for defense or foreign aid. Consumers buy goods they fear may go out of production. But a shooting war would be another thing altogether, and could quickly take all the strength out of the present boom.

Here are some of the things just reported on the general state of business, and some on specific industries:

Boy Scouts Plan Annual Jamboree

Valley Forge, Pa., June 27 —(AP)—There is far more going on than meets the eye at the bustling site of the second national jamboree of the Boy Scouts of America.

The behind the scene activity has a twofold objective. The jamboree will get under way officially on Friday when President Truman arrives to make the opening address.

Secret service men, state police and scout leaders are leaving no stone unturned to make certain the President's visit is without incident.

In addition, a scout official said today, extraordinary precautions are being taken to prevent the jamboree—largest youth gathering ever held in the western hemisphere—from being disrupted or "sabotaged" by Communists or their sympathizers.

The scout leader, who asked that his name be withheld, pointed out to jamboree authorities that they realize the Communist press would be quick to capitalize on any act or rumor which might be used to the detriment of the encampment.

The small water ouzel, a bird that likes water insects, "flies" under water, using the same wing motions other birds employ in air.

With 170 individuals and 27 teams entered representing 48 colleges and universities.

Qualifying rounds are scheduled today and tomorrow. The tourney winds up Saturday on the par 72 6813-yard university of New Mexico course.

The team title has been captured the last three years by southern or westerners and the same two groups have taken the individual title two consecutive years.

Racial Issues at Stake in Georgia

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

Atlanta, June 27 —(AP)—Red-galused Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia brings Dixie its third straight test tomorrow on the racial issue as a vote winner.

The score so far is 2 to 0 against candidates accused of championing more liberal treatment of Negroes.

Talmadge, whose name is almost synonymous with "white supremacy" as a vote-earning cry, faces former Gov. M. E. Thompson in a Democratic primary that climaxes a furious, four-year feud.

Two key members of congress also meet primary tests: Veteran Walter George, chairman of the senate finance committee; and Rep. John Wood, chairman of the house un-American activities committee.

Georgia's tobacco-chewing, 37-year-old governor has seized recent anti-segregation Supreme court decisions as his major campaign weapon. In every rally, he hits a peak with this defiant declaration:

"As long as Herman Talmadge is your governor, there'll be no mixing of the races in Georgia."

Talmadge also tries to make political hay with such statements as "I'm proud to be carrying the banner for red-blooded white citizens x x x I don't apologize for being a white man."

Another southern state, North Carolina, found heavy emphasis on the race issue a new campaign note in its runoff primary last Saturday. Attorney Willis Smith, who like Talmadge denounced Negro "bloc voting," defeated Liberal Sen. Frank Graham.

In Florida's recent primary, George Smathers' triumph over Sen. Claude Pepper was attributed partly to racial issues. Smathers plugged heavily on a campaign claim that Pepper favored an FEPC (federal fair employment practices commission), one of President Truman's "civil rights" proposals.

Pepper denied it. He accused Smathers' forces of paying Negroes to shake hands with Pepper at political rallies for campaign photo purposes.

In Georgia, Talmadge's potent organization accuses Thompson repeatedly of conniving with that "FEPC, scalawag crowd" and wooing Negro "bloc votes."

Thompson insists that Talmadge shouts about the race issue for political gain but does nothing and that (Thompson) has a real plan for preserving segregation — an $800,000 school building program.

Invading Reds

planes shot down four Russian-made North Korean planes which tried to interfere with the air evacuation of American women and children from South Korea.

This fight with the Russian-made Yak fighters was over Seoul's Kimpo airfield, where the American fighters were providing protective cover for transports.

A series of broadcasts from Seoul, capital of the American-sponsored southern republic, said American ground troops also would join the battle against the Reds and that a MacArthur Field headquarters would be established. This was not confirmed. Col. M. P. Echols, general MacArthur's public information officer, said he knew nothing about it.

Recapture of Uijongbu, 12 miles north of Seoul, would sever main communication lines of the Communist tank spearhead, once reported near Seoul, and might, in itself, require a hasty withdrawal of the Red force before it is cut off.

(Correspondent O. H. P. King said yesterday the Korean counter-attack at Uijongbu failed principally because of the Second division, under heavy artillery fire, failed to move on schedule and threw off planned cooperation with the Seventh division.

Tokyo, June 27 —(AP)—North Korean Communist invaders were reported tonight pushed back 20 miles north of Seoul, the southern capital.

A telephone connection direct to two Korean newspapermen in Seoul brought the statement the capital was "quiet" and the main battle line was more than 20 miles to the north.

The two-Bill Shinn, Associated Press Korean reporter, and Sol Kook Wan, managing editor of the Korean Pacific Press, said the entire South Korean cabinet — presumably including President Syngman Rhee — had evacuated the city despite continued contrary government claims.

Shinn and Sol Kook Wan said one North Korean fighter plane was shot down by American made fighters during a bombing raid on Seoul during the afternoon.

Three newly acquired American Mustang fighters challenged the raiders—eight in number.

This is the third North Korean fighter claimed by Korean pilots of the Mustangs which General MacArthur turned over to the South Korean government on orders from Washington.

The Korean newsmen talked from the Chosen hotel in the center of Seoul.

They said the battle line this afternoon stretched from Munsan, about 25 miles northwest of Seoul, to Tong Du Chan, about 25 miles due north, to Pochon on the east. If this line is correct it would confirm previous South Korean reports that Uijongbu, important valley town 12 miles north of Seoul, had been recaptured.

DOROTHY DIX

Jealousy

Dear Miss Dix: I am a man 36 years old. Two years ago my wife and one child were killed in an accident. I swore I would never marry again, but now I have met a woman I'm crazy in love with. She is my age, highly educated, good-looking, fine business woman, most interesting talker, never a dull moment when she is around. She was unhappily married and is separated but not divorced. Says the reason she doesn't get a divorce is that she is afraid if she had one she would be foolish enough in some mad moment to get married again. I am wildly jealous of everybody who comes near this woman. I am on her trail nearly all the time. I want to know what she is doing every minute of the day and night. She says she fears for me, but if she does why won't she get a divorce and marry me?

E. M. Answer: The answer to your riddle is plain enough. Your insane jealousy is your undoing. No woman who still retains her reasoning faculties, no matter how much in love she was, would be mad enough to marry a man who grew green-eyed every time she spoke to another man even when he knew it was a matter of business, who demanded that she produce an alibi for minute of her time.

ingly gave military secrets to Jaffe, who was editor of the now-defunct magazine. Service said he had no such information to impart. Service yesterday spent 4-12 hours before the inquiry committee at a closed meeting and was reported to have maintained his stand that he never willingly passed secret military secrets to Jaffe.

An individual familiar with what went on at the committee session said Service listened to a reading of the FBI transcript and declared he could not recall ever having made remarks to Jaffe such as were attributed to him in parts of the recording. The FBI's recording was the result of the agency's concealing a microphone in Jaffe's hotel room, on May 9, 1945.

After concluding the questioning of Service, the committee is said to have decided to check with the wartime China staff of General Albert C. Wedemeyer for a possible clue to the puzzle.

Service spent a good part of the war in China in state department and army assignments.

Service, Jaffe and four others were arrested in the 1945 Amerasia case and charged with conspiracy to obtain illegal possession of government documents. The arrests came after federal agents discovered hundreds of secret government papers in the New York office of Amerasia magazine and elsewhere.

Rains, Hail Damage Parts of Pennsylvania

By The Associated Press

Rain, hail, and winds whipped across northwestern Pennsylvania's Crawford county yesterday evening inflicting thousands of dollars worth of damage.

Power lines snapped under the wild lashing. Trees were twisted from position, orchards and gardens were smashed. Nearly 2,000 greenhouse windows went twinkling into tiny pieces under the barrage of hail in Meadville.

In Wisconsin's Onondaga county, inhabitants were pulling themselves together today following a booming tornado — with winds raging up to 120 M.P.H. — which cut a half mile path through wooded summer resort areas.

Speech Making Is Part of State Dept.

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 27 —(AP)—Dean Acheson has been secretary of state just about a year and a half, or 18 months, and in that time he has made 20 major speeches.

That's an average of better than one a month, and he has more coming up. For a busy and important man like Acheson, it's a lot of speechmaking.

But he isn't setting any oratory record for secretaries of state. That still belongs to the "boy orator of the Plate," William Jennings Bryan, for a comparable period of time among modern secretaries.

Bryan made 55 major talks, a shade better than two a month, in the 27 months—or two and a quarter years—when he was secretary of state from March 1913 to June 1915.

But Cordell Hull, who had the job for 12 years, longer than any other secretary in American history, undoubtedly made over that period of time more speeches than any secretary.

In his first six years as secretary, Hull made 85 talks, an average of 14 a year. This dwindled in the remaining six years as this country got into war and Hull had less time for speechmaking.

(Some other secretaries: George C. Marshall, 22 in two years, or a little less than one a month; James F. Byrnes, 19 in one and a half years, or just a trifle better than one a month.)

Those close to Acheson say he's a lot more effective speaker when he talks off-the-cuff without notes or prepared text. But, they feel, there's a little danger in that for a secretary of state.

There's always the chance he may use a word or phrase which will wind up having an effect he never intended, a word or phrase he might not have used if he had first gone over his talk in writing.

So, so far, most of his speeches have been carefully prepared, and may be re-written as much as ten times or more. It all starts this way:

A group or organization which wants Acheson for a speaker, writes to the state department's office of public affairs, under the direction of Francis Russell.

Since Russell's office gets an average of 65 such requests a month but Acheson averages only one speech a month, he is filling only a fraction of the requests.

It's the job of Russell's office to recommend to Acheson the requests it thinks he should accept. But he makes the final decision. Once he does, the work begins.

There were a lot of points and problems Acheson wants to get across to the public. He selects one of them. The first draft of the

House Attacked for Action on Veterans Bill

Washington, June 27 —(AP)—Chairman Murray (D-Tenn.) of the house postoffice and civil service committee said today the house, by overriding a veterans' benefits bill veto, has invited new demands for veterans' legislation.

The house overrode the veto yesterday by a vote of 213 to 72. In applying it, President Truman described the benefit measure as the equivalent of "an I and I" bonus or adjusted service payment in recognition of military service.

The bill would give pay raises to World War II veterans, who enter the postal service prior to July 1 of this year but who were not in the postoffice department when they went into military service. It would do this by advancing them one pay grade—or $100 a year—for each year of military service.

The senate has not yet acted on the veto. If it musters a two-thirds vote and passes the bill again, it will become law despite the President's disapproval.

speech is drawn up by people in Russell's office. They're picked for the job because they're supposed to have shown ability in speechwriting.

Specialists in the field to be covered by a talk are called in for help and consultation. For example: If Acheson is going to talk on Russia, Korea, and the Atlantic pact, state department specialists in those fields lend a hand.

After he gets the first draft, Acheson goes over it. Often he writes it to suit himself at home at night. Then the Acheson version goes back to the specialists for a final check.

With this done and the speech in final form, the whole thing is submitted to President Truman. And Acheson's aides say Mr. Truman reads every word of Acheson's talks before the latter makes them.

This will give an example of the time that may go into an Acheson speech.

He had wanted for a long time to explain clearly, so the public would understand it, this country's attitude toward Russia and what he believes Russia's aims and tactics mean.

Work on this was begun last October and, after many reworkings, was finished in the spring of 1949. Acheson finally delivered it in California.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler
Copyright, 1950
By King Features Syndicate.

New York, June 26.—The American Legion magazine is publishing an article by George N. Craig, the national commander, entitled "Terror By Law," exposing a campaign of intimidation by Communist through libel suits against loyal citizens.

In referring to the recent suit of Paul Draper and Larry Adler against Mrs. John T. McCullough, of Greenwich, Conn., I stipulate that I do not include them among such Communists and fellow-travelers. The question was not decided one way or another in the trial. Nor do I include them in the campaign, which I refer to. I deal with their case apart from the campaign, but deal with it nevertheless because I think it promoted a current purpose of the Communists which is to suppress free speech on the subject of Communist associations, activities and methods through fear of terrible suffering and ruinous expense.

The citizens of Connecticut have learned that they put themselves and their dependents in danger of financial ruin and everlasting poverty merely by speaking frankly on a political issue. One must not allege that this was the purpose of Draper and Adler. The effect was just coincidental.

The article by Commander Craig, bears the impressive subtitle, "Commies now use lawyers to intimidate decent Americans who dare to stand in their way.
But the Legion at the post level can stop them cold."

This should spread the warning everywhere, because it doubtless will be talked up in post meetings.

Mr. Craig, who is a lawyer, re-wrote: "Instead of physical assaults, the party is now restoring to something even more sinister—legal beatings— as a means of intimidating anti-Communists. I can reveal that a well-organized machine of Communist legal goons are now operating. The machine has just one objective, to scare off opposition to the Reds' plans."

I personally lack proof that such a machine exists, but I am morally certain that it does and that I know what its fronts are.

This Communist legal juggler-naut recently swung into action on the outskirts of New York City," Mr. Craig says. "Its victim was a plain, ordinary American who objected to domination of his town's government by a group led by Communist."

"A long-time resident of this suburb awakened to the fact that a clique of alleged 'Liberals,' led by a core of Communists, had taken control of the town's affairs.
They had placed their men in office as city manager, as police commissioner, and even more insidiously, a head of the school board. The old-timer got up at town meeting and declared: 'This town is under the domination of a gang of pinks and Reds and it's time the real Americans did something about it.'"

Minutes later, he was approached by two men of the Communist-led faction whom he knew to be lawyers. One shoved his fist in his face. You've just committed a vicious slander," he said, and unless you retract it publicly,
we're going to sue."

"Go ahead and sue," he replied.
"What I said is true and you know it."

"Maybe so," the lawyer said,
"but you'll still have to hire lawyers to defend you and before we're through with you, it'll cost you every cent you have."

"Like any citizen threatened with a lawsuit, the old-timer was alarmed. He felt sure he could substantiate his charges but he couldn't afford the big fee a lawyer might ask. Such a trial might drag on for months or years.
And, supposing the communists won, what then?

"The next meeting he will show up as traitor."

American Men Give Women High Target

Wimbledon, England, June 27 — (AP)—America's women players have a high mark to shoot at in their opening round matches of the Wimbledon tennis championships today.

The male contingent of eight Americans scored 100 percent yesterday, winning all their matches before a crowd of 20,000, that jammed around Wimbledon's 18 emerald green courts under sunny skies.

The girls won't be quite able to match that achievement, because of the luck of the draw. Nancy Chaffee of Los Angeles meets Marta Barnett of Coral Gables, Florida.

The eleven other U. S. contenders for the singles title face European opponents, and all appear to have a fighting chance of surviving.

Clarksdale Ousts P. B. From First

By The Associated Press
Clarksdale knocked Pine Bluff out of first place with a 9-7 victory over the Judges last night.

Hot Springs, which defeated
Greenwood 5-3, displaced Pine Bluff in the top spot.

El Dorado downed Natchez, 7-4.
Monroe and Greenville wound up in an 8-8 tie after 11 innings. The two teams couldn't play any longer because of a curfew rule against starting an inning after 11:50 p. m.

Outcome of the Clarksdale-Pine Bluff game might have been different if Pine Bluff starter Duren hadn't been even more liberal with walks than he was with strikeouts. He struck out 10 men in the eight innings he worked, but also gave up 11 walks. Each team used three pitchers. Frank Scar-pace and Harold Bollinger hit home runs for Pine Bluff; Ernie Velasquez hit one for Clarksdale.

Hot Springs won its game without services of its regular manager, Johnny Antonelli, who was suspended for five days as a result of a run-in with umpire Frank Guzzetta at Clarksdale last Thursday night. Steve Solis acted as manager and didn't let his executive duties keep him from getting three hits, including two triples, in four times at bat.

Rookie Bill Gingerich held the Dodgers to three hits and struck out 11 men.

El Dorado put on a five-run ra-ley, sparked by Harville Jakes' three-run homer, to clinch its win with Natchez in the seventh inning. Jim Gilbert got a homer for Natchez in the eighth. Nobody was on base at the time.

After using steel wool put it on a radiator to dry to prevent rusting.

draw his statement. The town is still under the sway of the Red-led clique. The lawyers who threatened the old-timer were part of the communists' legal steamroller and their blackmailing approach was typical. This machine is used throughout the country to intimidate individuals, organizations and even newspapers who oppose the Stalinists. It is used to aid communist spies and conspirators to escape punishment."

Mr. Craig cites other instances and recalls the penetration, even the saturation, of the federal agencies by communists lawyers which occurred under Roosevelt.
He calls on all lawyers within the legion to establish lawyers' resolutions to "protect good Americans from legal persecution."

Referring again to the paperlough, I would point out that this good citizen and her husband and young children were let down by their neighbors in the town of Greenwich. Draper and Adler were demanding $200,000. The McCul-loughs had only a few hundred dollars and a minor equity in their home. All this was attached.
Had they just surrendered rather than stand trial, they almost certainly would have been wiped out financially for life. There was no indication that Draper and Adler were willing to settle for less than $200,000. Only by public subscription were they able to finance their legal fight which ended in a disagreement. And even so, they raised only $28,000-plus, as I understand the figures, and had to sell a small piece of land. They wound up still owing about $30,000, all aside from their great suffering for a year.

Lawyers of patriotic leaning are awakening.

From Wisconsin I have received word of a popular movement to underwrite in advance all costs that senator Joe McCarthy, the anti-communist crusader, may incur in exposing traitors in the government, and all damages that might be allowed. Thus he could speak up off the floor, waiving his constitutional immunity. The American legion, of course, has fine facilities for organizing the counter-attack.

Actions charging libel predominantly present in the role of plaintiffs persons who have so behaved as to elicit the sort of remarks that Mr. Craig cites. The costs of trial are so high that individual defendants who are not organized as the communists are throughout their fronts, often "settle" for $10, 000 or more. This is bad enough, but a worse effect is the suppression of opinion and even information. Two such plaintiffs in notorious recent cases later were shown up as traitors.

Hope Juniors Hand Defeat to Magnolia

Must Answer With Single Exception

BY JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 23 —(P)— For the first time in the history of the congressional committee you can be cited for contempt and, if guilty, be fined for as long as a year and fined up to $1,000.

Does this mean you must answer every question put to you by a congressional committee with one exception — if you refuse to answer, that "what I would say might tend to incriminate me."

When you use that excuse you're invoking the protection of the fifth amendment to the constitution, which says no citizen in a criminal case can be forced to testify against himself.

But — even this one protection for a witness, this one "out," is full of tricky loopholes that can land you in jail. The Supreme Court has made that clear.

In the first place, you can't use the "self-incrimination" excuse just as an artful dodge to duck a question. Congress will decide whether it thinks your answer might incriminate you or whether you're using it as a ruse to avoid an answer.

If it decides the latter, it can cite you for contempt and you face jail if found guilty. But there are very narrow limits on how much self-incrimination you can plead. This will show why.

Remember that a congressional committee, like a U. S. grand jury, deals with federal laws only. Almost every violation of a federal law is covered by a "statute of limitations." Which means, in most cases, a three-year limit. For example:

If you violated a federal law — say by peddling narcotics — and the government hasn't charged you within three years after your last sale, it never can charge you. So, after three years you couldn't be charged.

So if a congressional committee asks you if you violated a federal law, and you're protected from prosecution by the three-year limit, you must admit your crime or face contempt. In such a case you

MURDER LIQUIDATED

Copyright 1930 by Julius Long NEA Service, Inc.

THIS STORY, Ben Corbett, special investigator of State Attorney General Keever, has received a $1000 bonus for his work on the case. If he should tell for four days, he should tell for four days. He thinks it is best to get things under control.

I WENT to my car and drove downtown to the State House, thinking about that call for me that had come to my apartment house that morning. It couldn't be the donor of the $4000, for that person knew too much about me to call when I wasn't at home.

I parked and went into the Annex which housed State Attorney General Keever's offices.

They were deserted, for everybody was out to lunch. I went to my own private cubbyhole, propped my feet on my desk, leaned back and lighted a cigarette and tried to think out the predicament in which I found myself. I felt that I would do better on an empty stomach, so I was passing up lunch.

It was taking an awful chance, carrying those bills on me. They were unmarked, but whatever bank had issued them would have their numbers. If somebody wanted to frame me $4000 worth, all he would have to do now would be to send in the city dicks or even have Keever nail me with his gang of investigators.

I was the titular chief of those investigators, who numbered six, and who had been recruited from the tail-bush country in the placation of small-town political leaders who were satisfied with getting brothers-in-law on Keever's payroll. They spent most of their time hunting the hats they had left in restaurants, and Keever was too shrewd to use them on anything involving the intelligence of a high-grade moron.

THE only person in the office who took them seriously was ton and I both had the same ideas about her, but that did not interfere with our friendship.

OUTSIDE the heavy main door thudded shut. I got up, thinking it might be Shelton, the only man on the staff who ever showed up ahead of time. I opened the door and found Keever just outside.

"I was just coming to see you, Ben. I noticed your car in the lot and figured you would be here."

Somewhat aghast, I stepped back to permit Keever to enter. To my knowledge it was the first time he had ever graced my cubbyhole with his presence. The mountain truly was come to Mahomet. I took a hurried look around, saw the usual disarray of magazines and old newspapers, and wondered if Keever would comment. He was usually eager to take some dig at me, no matter how petty.

But this time Keever seemed preoccupied. He sat down in one of my two guest chairs and stared across my cluttered desk.

"Ben, I'm worried. For a long time I've thought everything was going too smoothly. This morning I got a phone call that convinced me that the road ahead will be rough."

I eyed Keever. He did look worried. The fine lines around his eyes were deeper than usual, and his brow was furrowed. He kept playing with his fine-line mustache. It seemed to me that the distinguishing gray hair at his temples was a little grayer, but that was probably my imagination.

"Yes, boss?"

"This call was anonymous, of course, but I still think it means something. The girl said — 'Keever eyed me quizzically. You know something, Ben?' He eyed me with puzzlement."

"No, go on."

"The girl said she had no concern in the matter whatever, but she thought I ought to know that somebody in my office, one of my trusted men, was accepting a large bribe. I asked her who it was, and she wouldn't tell me. Why are you looking that way, Ben?"

PRESCOTT NEWS

Barham-Lackey Nuptial Held

Miss Maisie Lackey and James Edward Barham were married yesterday in First Methodist church, Little Rock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Lackey of Mountain View, formerly of Little Rock. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. J. E. Barham and the late Mr. Barham of Little Rock.

Rev. Aubrey G. Walton officiated. Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. John Summers and Mrs. Steve Jeffery of Batesville. Mr. Lackey gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride wore a white satin gown with a net yoke outlined in seed pearls. Her illusion veil fell from a white cloche encrusted with seed pearls and edged with net ruching. She carried a white prayer book topped with a white orchid.

Mrs. W. C. Reynolds of Gurdon was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Ann Lackey of Mountain View, sister of the bride, and Mrs. J. M. Faulkner of Batesville.

can't get off by pleading "self-incrimination."

And, since congress deals only with federal laws, you can't duck a question by pleading self-incrimination if the question involves violation of a state law. Suppose a congressional committee asked you if you had violated a state law just a week ago. You must answer.

If you answer "yes," it will be a tip-off to your state police and, when you get back home, they can charge you with a state crime. (The New York gambler, Frank Erickson is a good recent example of that. He was called before a congressional committee investigating interstate gambling. He was asked about his activities.

(He admitted he was a gambler in New York. He couldn't be prosecuted in federal court for that, since there's no federal law against gambling, but—

(Immediately, New York police raided his offices, arrested him, charged him with gambling, and forced him to trial.)

Maybe at this point you say: "Ah, but isn't there something in the law somewhere which says that if I admit a crime in testifying before a congressional committee it can't be used against me?" Sure there is. It's in a law passed by congress in 1857.

It says: "No testimony given by a witness before a congressional committee shall be used as evidence in any criminal proceedings against him in any court." Sounds foolproof, doesn't it? Far from it.

Suppose you admitted before a congressional committee that you had violated a federal law within the past three years. The FBI thereafter couldn't use your exact words in a trial before a jury. But — immediately it could use your admission as a lead in running down your crime, finding witnesses, building up a case, and charging you.

Just one more: suppose your answer, while not incriminating you or leading to jail for you, might ruin your reputation. Couldn't you refuse to answer by saying something like: "My answer might disgrace me or render me otherwise infamous?"

No. You would have to answer — or face jail for contempt — unless your answer truly might tend to incriminate you. Just hurting your own reputation is no excuse.

Erickson Is Given 2-Year Sentence

New York, June 26 —(P)— Frank Erickson, kingpin of a nationwide bookmaking business, today was sentenced to two years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

The chubby, 54-year-old gambling mogul, who had plied his multi-million-dollar betting trade for a quarter century without spending a day in jail, was sentenced in Special Sessions court.

He could have received up to 60 years in prison.

Erickson threw himself on the mercy of the court last Monday by pleading guilty to a 60-count gambling charge.

A three-judge panel gave Erickson a one-year prison term on one count of conspiracy and a second year on the first of 59 counts of bookmaking. The terms are to run consecutively.

The moon-faced, balding gambling mogul, admitted operator of a $12,500,000-a-year, coast-to-coast bookmaking empire, also was given a suspended penitentiary term of three years.

The sentence was handed down by Justices Nathan D. Perlman, Frank Oliver and John V. Flood.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan had urged the court to impose a penalty of five years imprisonment, and a $30,000 fine.

Erickson was fined the maximum amount, $500 on each of the 60 counts.

Ex-Spa Fire Chief Dies Suddenly

Hot Springs, June 26 —(P)— Thad Rogers, 53, former chief of the Hot Springs fire department, died suddenly of a heart attack Sunday at his home here.

A life-long resident of Hot Springs, he was a member of the fire department for 24 years, retiring last September. He became chief in April, 1927. He was a veteran of World War I.

Mr. Rogers leaves his wife, two step-children, two brothers, all of Hot Springs.

Funeral services will be here Tuesday.

Mrs. Lula Terry, and Mrs. Marion Bushee.

Mrs. Electa C. Wells, will leave Thursday to spend a vacation in Tucson, Arizona. While there she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Beane.

Mrs. Clara B. Stone, teacher in the Prescott Public school, was chosen delegate to the National Education Convention from this district. She will leave Sunday to attend the convention, which will be held in St. Louis, next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Westmoreland of Little Rock were guests over the week-end of Mrs. Westmoreland's parents Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Bullock.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stephenson and daughter of Little Rock have returned home after having spent the week-end here visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Cox.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Compton Sunday night June 25, at the Baptist hospital, Little Rock, a daughter. She has been named Ann.

AMA Ready to Start Big Campaign

San Francisco, June 27 —(P)—The American Medical association today stood ready to spend $3,000,000 and abandon its traditional code against advertising in its fight against socialized medicine.

The association, opening its 99th annual convention here yesterday, said it has established a $1,000,000 fund for newspaper and radio advertising to combat socialized medicine and boost voluntary health insurance.

The balance of the $3,000,000 will be spent on educational and publicity activities in non-advertising fields.

Each member doctor of the AMA will be assessed $25 for the publicity fund. Previously, the doctors' code of ethics prohibited their advertising for practice and also use of their names in newspapers except under certain conditions.

Dr. Ernest L. Irons, retiring president of the AMA's house of delegates, said the board of trustees considered the publicity fund a long time before voting unanimously in favor of it.

He declared the American people do not want socialized medicine and said his profession was anxious to see a vote in congress on the issue. President Truman presently has a bill pending for government-paid health insurance.

Dr. Irons said advertisements against socialized medicine will be run during one week in October in 11,000 daily and weekly newspapers, and radio announcements will be broadcast throughout the entire month.

There are 10,000 doctors attending the five day meeting.

Yesterday, the association gave its distinguished service award for 1930 to Dr. Everts A. Graham, St. Louis surgeon. He was the first surgeon to remove a complete human lung successfully in an operation, 1933. The patient is still living.

Runners-up for the award were Dr. Francis Carter Wood of New York City, and Dr. Torald Sellman of Cleveland.

Government Is Big Rice Buyer

Washington, June 27 —(P)— An agriculture department spokesman said today the government took over approximately 2,750,000 bags of rice this year under the loan and purchase agreement program for the 1949 crop.

Final figures are not available. A bag, or pocket, of rice contains 100 pounds.

The government took over the rice on April 30. At that time farmers with government loans on their crops either paid off the loan or let the crop go to the commodity credit corporation.

L. B. Ellis, rice expert with the production and marketing administration's grain branch, told a reporter that the government took over approximately 1,800,000 bags of rice in California and about 1,000,000 bags in the southern rice states, chief of which are Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana.

This, he said, was less than half the amount the government expected to take over earlier in the year.

"At one time," he said, "we thought we might have to take as much as 4,000,000 barrels of rice."

A barrel of rice contains 102 pounds.

Department figures show that at one time this year the department had loans or purchase agreements involving a total of 8,200,000 pockets of rice. Of this growers ultimately redeemed all but the 2,750,000 bags.

Commission Denies New KTHS Hearing

Washington, June 27 —(P)— The communications commission has refused a rehearing on its decision denying radio station KTHS authority to move from Hot Springs, Ark.

Rehearing also was refused in associated applications, which were denied. In these Radio Broadcasting, Inc., owner of KTHS, had sought authority to build a new station in Hot Springs if KTHS were moved to West Memphis, Ark., and Hot Springs Broadcasting Co., had sought authority for a new station in Hot Springs to take over the operating frequency of KTHS.

Both companies asked reconsideration of the commission order issued last April.

Radio Broadcasting, Inc., said in its rehearing petition that if the FCC would not authorize a KTHS move to West Memphis, it would be willing to take the station to Little Rock, the state capital.
